7 ROBERT J. MIDDLEWORTH, 8 9 Petitioner,

10 v.

11 JEFFREY A. UTTECHT,
12 Respondent.

NO. 4:14-CV-5124-TOR

ORDER DENYING PETITIONER'S
AMENDED WRIT OF HABEAS
CORPUS

13 BEFORE THE COURT is Petitioner Robert J. Middleworth's Amended
14 Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus. ECF No. 4. Respondent Jeffrey A. Uttecht 15 has answered the Petition and filed relevant portions of the state court record. ECF 16 Nos. 23-24. The Court has reviewed the record and files herein, and is fully 17 informed. For the reasons discussed below, Petitioner's Amended Petition for Writ 18 of Habeas Corpus (ECF No. 4) is DENIED.

19 BACKGROUND

20 On December 19, 2014, Petitioner Robert J. Middleworth, a prisoner at the Coyote Ridge Corrections Center and proceeding pro se, filed this action

ORDER DENYING PETITIONER'S AMENDED WRIT OF HABEAS

1 challenging the lawfulness of his 2012 state conviction. ECF No. 1. Petitioner
2 filed an Amended Petition on March 9, 2015. ECF No. 4. Petitioner challenges 3 his 2012 state jury conviction for first degree rape of a child and first degree child 4 molestation under 28 U.S.C. § 2254. Id. at 1. The underlying facts and procedural 5 history, summarized by the Washington Court of Appeals, are as follows:

6 Mr. Middleworth dated K.D., who eventually moved along with her 7 four-year-old daughter B.D. into the basement apartment Mr.
8 Middleworth occupied in his mother's house. Not long thereafter Mr.
9 Middleworth and K.D. had to take B.D. to the hospital due to pain while urinating. Seeing signs of possible sexual abuse, a nurse asked B.D. if anyone had touched her "down there." B.D. stated that Mr.
Middleworth had done so.

10 CPS forensic child abuse investigator Brook Martin interviewed B.D.
11 on September 28, 2010. The interview was videotaped and law 12 enforcement viewed the interview remotely from an observation room. B.D. disclosed an act of molestation during the interview, but denied any acts that constituted rape.

13 On the way home from the interview, B.D. commented that one of the 14 balloons in the car looked like a "wiener that went in her mouth."
15 Upon hearing about that remark, Ms. Martin conducted a second 16 interview on September 30, 2010. She briefly mentioned during her testimony at the first trial that she had conducted a follow-up interview on the 30th due to remarks made in the car after her first interview. Neither counsel asked Ms. Martin about that interview.

17 The defense rested without calling witnesses. The jury convicted Mr.
18 Middleworth as charged on one count of first degree child rape and 19 one count of first degree child molestation. Represented by new 20 counsel, Randy Lewis, Mr. Middleworth obtained a new trial on the basis that his original counsel had prevented him from testifying.
After the defense replaced Mr. Lewis with Mr. Jerry Makus, the case eventually was rescheduled for a new trial in early 2012.

1 The court set a status conference hearing for January 11, 2012, prior 2 to the retrial. The matter was heard in chambers, but was reported so 3 that a record was available in the event that Mr. Middleworth, who 4 was trying to fire Mr. Makus, alleged ineffective assistance of counsel. The court explained that the conference was intended to be an informal discussion and that the parties and witnesses were not allowed to be present.

5 Mr. Middleworth asked to be present, but the court did not allow the 6 request. At the hearing, Mr. Makus confirmed that he was prepared to 7 go to trial but acknowledged that his client desired to terminate his 8 representation. The trial judge indicated that the representation issue would be taken up later in the courtroom in Mr. Middleworth's presence.

9 The court also asked if there were any discovery issues and the State 10 asked the court to clarify its earlier ruling about B.D.'s taped 11 interview. The court clarified that the entire interview would be 12 admissible and also stated that it would not change its previous ruling 13 about B.D.'s foster care placement. The parties also discussed the 14 availability of a defense expert who would have to travel from 15 Wisconsin. The matter was complicated because the witness alleged that the first report attributed to him by the defendant – and which was very favorable to the defendant – had been forged. The expert did claim responsibility for a different report that was less favorable to the defense. Defense counsel also asked, and the prosecutor answered, a question about a State's expert's opinion concerning herpes testing of Mr. Middleworth. The parties then went into the courtroom and dealt with Mr. Middleworth's request to replace Mr. Makus.

16 The second trial began January 18, 2012. It ended in a mistrial when 17 excluded evidence was presented during the State's case. A third trial 18 was held April 2 thru April 10, 2012. Mr. Makus represented Mr.
19 Middleworth at trial. Ms. Martin again testified that there had been a 20 second interview, although the prosecutor did not inquire further.
Defense counsel asked if the second interview had been videotaped and where the tape was. Ms. Martin answered that the interview had been videotaped but she had not given the tape to law enforcement because they had not wanted it.

1 Outside the presence of the jury, the court and parties further inquired 2 into the second interview. Ms. Martin explained the remark that led to 3 the second interview. The court ordered that the video be produced 4 immediately and that the State explain why it had not been produced 5 earlier. The defense moved to dismiss the charges due to this 6 discovery violation. After reviewing the second tape, the trial judge 7 summarized his impressions of it. B.D. has stated that Nana [K.D.'s 8 mother] had put bandages on her inner thigh, but no context to the 9 statement was given. There was no allegation that either Nana or her 10 longtime companion ("Papa Brian") had injured B.D.

11 The court concluded that a continuance for the defense to investigate 12 was appropriate; the matter was continued five days to April 10. The 13 court indicated that the parties could recall any witnesses who had 14 already testified. The State did not recall any witnesses and rested.
15 The defense called the CPS social worker who had transported K.D.
16 When she could not recall any statements by B.D., the social worker 17 was not put before the jury. K.D. was called and testified that she had 18 once left B.D. with her mother during the time she lived with the 19 defendant. The foster mother testified that she had bathed B.D. who 20 cried in pain when her thighs were washed and cried "Brian" several times. "Papa Brian" also was called to testify; he denied hurting B.D.
Mr. Middleworth took the stand and also denied touching B.D. inappropriately.

The jury convicted Mr. Middleworth as charged. The court sentenced him to a high end standard range minimum term of 160 months. The court also ordered "restitution" of $2,597.22 in expert witness costs payable to the county prosecutor's office and an additional sum for health care for B.D. Mr. Middleworth then timely appealed to this court.

ECF No. 24-1 at 22-26 (Ex. 2).

The Washington Court of Appeals only reversed the restitution award for the expert witness fees and otherwise affirmed Petitioner's convictions for first degree child rape and first degree child molestation. Id. at 22. Petitioner filed a motion

1 for reconsideration, which the Court of Appeals denied. Id. at 197-205 (Exs. 10; 2 11). Petitioner then filed a petition for review in the Washington Supreme Court.
3 Id. at 207-33 (Ex. 12). On November 3, 2014, the Washington Supreme Court 4 denied review. Id. at 262 (Ex. 15). On September 8, 2014, the Washington Court 5 of Appeals issued its mandate. Id. at 264 (Ex. 16).

6 On August 6, 2014, Petitioner filed a personal restraint petition in the 7 Washington Court of Appeals. Id. at 266-83 (Ex. 17). On March 16, 2015, the 8 Washington Court of Appeals addressed Petitioner's issues and dismissed his 9 personal restraint petition. Id. at 513-15 (Ex. 20). Petitioner then moved the 10 Washington Supreme Court for discretionary review, which was denied on October 11 7, 2015. Id. at 519-39 (Exs. 22; 23). The Washington Court of Appeals issued a 12 certificate of finality on December 14, 2015. Id. at 541 (Ex. 24).

13 On December 29, 2014, Petitioner also filed another personal restrain 14 petition regarding the denial of a motion in the trial court for DNA testing from his 15 genital lesions. ECF No. 24-2 at 2-11 (Ex. 25). Petitioner was appointed counsel 16 in this matter. Id. at 224-39 (Ex. 28). The Washington Court of Appeals affirmed 17 the trial court's denial of Petitioner's motion, finding the DNA testing requested 18 would not provide significant new information or be likely to demonstrate 19 innocence on a more probable than not basis. Id. at 318 (Ex. 31). Petitioner 20 moved the Washington Supreme Court for discretionary review and the Court

1 denied review on June 28, 2017. ECF No. 24-3 at 5-64 (Exs. 33-35). The 2 Washington Court of Appeals issued its mandate on July 10, 2017. Id. at 66 (Ex.
3 36).

4 Petitioner filed this federal 28 U.S.C. § 2254 habeas petition on December 5 19, 2014. His amended petition generally alleges four grounds for relief: (1) right 6 to a public trial; (2) right to be present; (3) double jeopardy; (4) a Brady violation 7 for failure of the prosecution to disclose a second interview of the victim; and (5) 8 accumulation of errors presents a significant constitutional issue. ECF No. 4.

9 DISCUSSION

10 A court will not grant a petition for a writ of habeas corpus with respect to 11 any claim that was adjudicated on the merits in state court proceedings unless the 12 petitioner can show that the adjudication of the claim:

13 (1) resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an 14 unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as 15 determined by the Supreme Court of the United States; or (2) resulted in a decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the State court proceeding.

16 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d). Section 2254(d) sets forth a “highly deferential standard for 17 evaluating state-court rulings which demands that state-court decisions be given 18 the benefit of the doubt.” Woodford v. Visciotti, 537 U.S. 19, 24 (2002) (citation 19 omitted).

1       I.       Exhaustion of State Remedies

2           The federal courts are not to grant a writ of habeas corpus brought by a 3 person in state custody pursuant to a state court judgment unless “the applicant has 4 exhausted the remedies available in the courts of the State.” Wooten v. Kirkland, 5 540 F.3d 1019, 1023 (9th Cir. 2008) (quoting 28 U.S.C. § 2254(b)(1)(A)). This 6 exhaustion requirement is “grounded in principles of comity” as it gives states “the 7 first opportunity to address and correct alleged violations of state prisoner’s federal 8 rights.” Id. at 1023 (quoting Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 731 (1991)).

9           A claim must be “fully and fairly” presented to the state’s highest court so as 10 to give the state courts a fair opportunity to apply federal law to the facts.
11 Anderson v. Harless, 459 U.S. 4, 6 (1982) (quoting Picard v. Connor, 404 U.S.
12 270, 276-78 (1971)). Each claim must be presented in the state’s highest court 13 based upon the same federal legal theory and the same factual basis as the claim is 14 subsequently asserted in federal court. Hudson v. Rushen, 686 F.2d 826, 829-30 15 (9th Cir. 1981).

16           If the state courts are to be given the opportunity to correct alleged violations 17 of prisoners’ federal rights, they must surely be alerted to the fact that the prisoners 18 are asserting claims under the United States Constitution. See Duncan v. Henry, 19 513 U.S. 364, 365-66 (1995) (citing Picard, 404 U.S. at 275) (internal quotation 20 marks omitted).

1 Vague references to broad constitutional principles such as due process, 2 equal protection, and a fair trial do not satisfy the exhaustion requirement. Gray v.
3 Netherland, 518 U.S. 152, 163 (1996); Hiivala v. Wood, 195 F.3d 1098, 1106 (9th 4 Cir. 1999). A “claim for relief from habeas corpus must include reference to a 5 specific federal constitutional guarantee, as well as a statement of the facts which 6 entitle the petitioner to relief.” Gray, 518 U.S. at 162-63.

7 Here, the Court agrees with Respondent and finds that Petitioner fully and 8 fairly presented claims 1, 2, and 4, rendering those claims exhausted within the 9 meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 2254(c). See ECF No. 23 at 10. In regards to claim 5, 10 Petitioner contends that Respondent appears to also concede that this claim is 11 exhausted by noting that the Washington Court of Appeals rejected this cumulative 12 error claim based on its finding that there was no errors to assess cumulatively.
13 ECF Nos. 29 at 2; 23 at 42. The Court finds that exhaustion has been met for 14 claim 5.

15 As to Petitioner’s third claim, Respondent asserts that Petitioner’s double 16 jeopardy claim is only partially exhausted. ECF No. 23 at 10. In the context of a 17 faulty jury instruction, Petitioner exhausted his claim. ECF No. 23 at 10.
18 Respondent insists that to the extent Petitioner’s double jeopardy claim is based on 19 a sufficiency of the evidence argument, then the claim is not exhausted. Id.
20 Petitioner alleges that he does not raise a sufficiency of the evidence argument and

1 any argument regarding the evidence was included to address the concerns raised 2 by the Court in its order to submit an amended petition. ECF No. 29 at 3-4.

3 Petitioner argues in his amended petition that the offense of molestation and 4 the offense of rape are the same because all the elements of rape are included in 5 molestation. ECF No. 4 at 10. Petitioner then contends that the record fails to 6 show that he touched B.D. more than one time, and thus the State failed to show 7 evidence of two separate and distinct acts of child rape and child molestation. Id.
8 at 11. Petitioner concludes that there is a possibility of a double jeopardy violation 9 because no instruction expressly stated that the jury must find that each count 10 represents an act distinct from all other charged counts. Id. at 11-12.

11 The Court liberally construes Petitioner's amended petition to bring a claim 12 for double jeopardy in regards to faulty jury instructions, which was properly 13 exhausted in state court. The Court agrees with Petitioner that his reference to 14 other evidence does not constitute a claim for sufficiency of the evidence.
15 Accordingly, the Court determines that Petitioner properly exhausted his claim for 16 double jeopardy in regards to the jury instructions. The Court considers 17 Petitioner's claims below.

18 II. Unreasonable Application of Clearly Established Federal Law

19 A rule is "clearly established Federal law" within the meaning of section 20 2254(d) only if it is based on "the holdings, as opposed to the dicta, of [the 1 Supreme Court’s] decisions.” White v. Woodall, 134 S.Ct. 1697, 1702 (2014) 2 (quoting Howes v. Fields, 565 U.S. 499, 505 (2012)). A state court’s decision is 3 contrary to clearly established Supreme Court precedent “if it applies a rule that 4 contradicts the governing law set forth in [Supreme Court] cases or if it confronts a 5 set of facts that are materially indistinguishable from a decision of [the Supreme 6 Court] and nevertheless arrives at a result different from [Supreme Court]

7 precedent.” Early v. Packer, 537 U.S. 3, 8 (2002) (internal quotation marks 8 omitted) (quoting Williams v. Taylor, 529 U.S. 362, 405-06 (2000)). The state 9 court need not cite to the controlling Supreme Court precedent, nor need it even be 10 aware of the relevant case law, “so long as neither the reasoning nor the result of 11 the state-court decision contradicts them.” Id. “[A]n unreasonable application of” 12 clearly established federal law is one that is “objectively unreasonable, not merely 13 wrong; even clear error will not suffice.” White, 134 S.Ct. at 1702 (internal 14 quotation marks and citation omitted). Of utmost importance, circuit precedent 15 may not be used “to refine or sharpen a general principle of Supreme Court 16 jurisprudence into a specific legal rule that [the Supreme] Court has not 17 announced.” Marshall v. Rodgers, 569 U.S. 58, 64 (2013) (per curiam).

18 In order to obtain a writ of habeas corpus, “a state prisoner must show that 19 the state court’s ruling on the claim being presented in federal court was so lacking 20 in justification that there was an error well understood and comprehended in

1 existing law beyond any possibility for fairminded disagreement.” Id. (quoting
2 Harrington v. Richter, 562 U.S. 86, 101 (2011)). Under the harmless error 3 standard of review adopted by the Supreme Court, even if a reviewing court finds 4 constitutional error, the challenged error must have caused “actual prejudice” or 5 had “substantial and injurious effect or influence” in determining the jury’s verdict 6 in order for the court to grant habeas relief. Brecht v. Abrahamson, 507 U.S. 619, 7 637 (1993) (citation omitted).

8 If [the section 2254(d)] standard is difficult to meet, that is because it 9 was meant to be .... It preserves authority to issue the writ in cases 10 where there is no possibility fairminded jurists could disagree that the 11 state court’s decision conflicts with [the Supreme] Court’s precedents.
12 It goes no further. Section 2254(d) reflects the view that habeas 13 corpus is a “guard against extreme malfunctions in the state criminal 14 justice systems,” not a substitute for ordinary error correction through 15 appeal. As a condition for obtaining habeas corpus from a federal 16 court, a state prisoner must show that the state court’s ruling on the 17 claim being presented in federal court was so lacking in justification 18 that there was an error well understood and comprehended in existing 19 law beyond any possibility for fairminded disagreement.

20 Harrington, 562 U.S. at 102-03 (citations omitted).

The petitioner bears the burden of showing that the state court decision is contrary to, or an unreasonable application of, clearly established precedent. See Cullen v. Pinholster, 563 U.S. 170, 181-82 (2011). In conducting its habeas review, a federal court looks “to the last reasoned decision of the state court as the basis of the state court’s judgment.” Merolillo v. Yates, 663 F.3d 444, 453 (9th

1 Cir. 2011) (citation omitted). A rebuttable presumption exists: “Where there has 2 been one reasoned state judgment rejecting a federal claim, later unexplained 3 orders upholding that judgment or rejecting the same claim rest upon the same 4 ground.” Ylst v. Nunnemaker, 501 U.S. 797, 803 (1991).

5 Claims 1: Right to a Public Trial

6 Petitioner contends that he was deprived of the right to a public trial in 7 regards to a status conference hearing, which was held prior to the second trial on 8 January 11, 2012. ECF No. 4 at 2, 4-7. Respondent asserts that Petitioner cannot 9 show a violation of the right to a public trial because he did not invoke the right at 10 trial, arguing that Petitioner may only pursue a claim of ineffective assistance of 11 counsel for not objecting to the allegedly closed proceeding. ECF No. 23 at 19.

12 A criminal defendant has a right to a speedy and public trial pursuant to the 13 Sixth Amendment, which is enforceable against the states through the Fourteenth 14 Amendment. U.S. Const. amend. VI, XIV. “Although the Sixth Amendment 15 refers to a ‘public trial,’ the right encompasses more than the trial itself, 16 ‘extending’ to those hearings whose subject matter involve[s] the values that the 17 right to a public trial serves.” United States v. Rivera, 682 F.3d 1223, 1228 (9th 18 Cir. 2012) (quoting United States v. Waters, 627 F.3d 345, 360 (9th Cir. 2010)).
19 Those values include ensuring fair proceedings, reminding the prosecutor and 20

1 judge of their grave responsibilities, discouraging perjury, and encouraging 2 witnesses to come forward. Id. at 1229.

3 A defendant in a criminal proceeding may forfeit the right to a public trial, 4 “either by affirmatively waiving it or by failing to assert it in a timely fashion.” Id.
5 at 1232 (citing Levine v. United States, 362 U.S. 610, 619 (1960)). In Levine, the 6 Supreme Court determined that the defendant forfeited his right to a public trial 7 during a criminal contempt proceeding because he did not request the trial judge to 8 open the courtroom, thereby giving notice of the claim and affording the judge an 9 opportunity to address it. Levine, 362 U.S. at 619.

10 Here, Respondent argues that Petitioner failed to invoke any claim regarding 11 a violation of his right to a public trial and he thus cannot pursue a public trial 12 claim now. ECF No. 23 at 23. Respondent insists that Petitioner may only seek a 13 claim for ineffective assistance of counsel because Petitioner’s counsel did not 14 promptly object to the closed status conference hearing. Id. Petitioner responds 15 that the cases requiring a defendant to promptly object all involve the defendant 16 being present at the disputed hearing, but he was excluded without a waiver. ECF 17 No. 29 at 9.

18 The Court finds that Petitioner likely forfeited his right to a public trial as his 19 counsel did not object to the closed status conference hearing. Even if Petitioner 20 properly invoked this claim, the Court finds that he fails to show that the state

1 court adjudication was an unreasonable application of clearly established federal 2 law. The Washington Court of Appeals found that “[e]ven if we assume that there 3 was a violation of the defendant’s public trial and presence rights, he has already 4 been accorded the remedy for such a violation – a new trial .... The violation, if 5 any, before the second trial was remedied by the third trial.” ECF No. 24-1 at 28 6 (Ex. 2).

7 “[A] constitutional error does not automatically require reversal of a 8 conviction.” Arizona v. Fulminate, 499 U.S. 279, 306 (1991). Automatic reversal 9 is “required only if this error was a ‘structural defect’ that permeated ‘[t]he entire 10 conduct of the trial from the beginning to the end’ or ‘affect[ed] the framework 11 within which the trial proceeds.’” Campbell v. Rice, 408 F.3d 1166, 1171 (9th Cir.
12 2005) (quoting Arizona, 499 U.S. at 309). The court considers a simple “trial 13 error” under the harmless-error review. Id. “A violation of the right to a public 14 trial is a structural error.” Weaver v. Massachusetts, 137 S.Ct. 1899, 1908 (2017).
15 When an objection is made at trial and the issue is raised on direct appeal, “the 16 defendant generally is entitled to ‘automatic reversal’ regardless of the error’s 17 actual ‘effect on the outcome.’” Id. (quoting Neder v. United States, 527 U.S. 1, 7 18 (1999)). Yet, the Supreme Court found that in the context of an ineffective 19 assistance of counsel claim in collateral review, the petitioner bears the burden of 20 showing prejudice. Id. at 1910-12. The Supreme Court emphasized that the 1 finality interest is more at risk in a claim raised in a post-conviction proceeding, 2 and direct review has often already given at least one opportunity for an appellate 3 review. Id. at 1912.

4 Here, Respondent asserts that Petitioner should also be required to show 5 prejudice in this collateral review proceeding. ECF No. 23 at 24-25. This Court 6 finds the Supreme Court’s decision in Weaver persuasive. This Court determines 7 that while the right to a public trial is a structural defect, this does not necessitate 8 an automatic reversal on collateral review when Plaintiff was afforded a third trial, 9 which may have cured any error due to the closed status conference hearing prior 10 to the second trial. The Court then considers the Petitioner’s potential prejudice.

11 Petitioner argues that “[t]he rulings made before the second trial were not 12 reconsidered in public with Mr. Middleworth present prior to this third trial.” ECF 13 Nos. 4 at 5; 29 at 11. The trial court determined that orders and rulings from the 14 second trial “remain in full force and effect” for the third trial. ECF No. 24-4 at 98 15 (Ex. 38). Petitioner then asserts that the third trial perpetuated this error. ECF No.
16 4 at 5.

17 Respondent agrees that the trial judge stated all prior orders will remain in 18 full force and effect. ECF No. 23 at 25. Yet, Respondent argues that although the 19 trial court held an informal status conference in chambers during the second trial, 20 the motions decided regarding child hearsay among others were heard on the 1 record in open court. ECF No. 23 at 25. The State and defense counsel agreed to 2 abide by the same rulings from the second trial. ECF Nos. 23 at 25; 24-4 at 98

3 Petitioner responds that “[a] review of the public hearing and the non-public 4 hearing demonstrates that they were not mirror images of one another.” ECF No.
5 29 at 14. Petitioner argues that the discussion about the expert reports at the non-6 public hearing was not addressed at the public hearing. Id. Petitioner states that 7 the trial court made rulings on the pornographic tapes and the minor forensic 8 interview at the non-public hearing, which were not made at the public hearing. Id.
9 The decision regarding the expert reports at the non-public hearing was different 10 than anything discussed at the public hearing. Id. Petitioner also emphasizes that 11 the conflict of interest issue was discussed after the trial court issued a preliminary 12 ruling based on defense counsel’s representations outside of Petitioner’s presence.
13 ECF Nos. 29 at 14; 24-3 at 173-74 (Ex. 37). Additionally, Petitioner argues that 14 the parties agreed to abide by the “same rules,” not the “same rulings” at the third 15 trial. ECF Nos. 29 at 14-15; 24-4 at 98. Petitioner contends that “rules” and 16 “rulings” are not the same and Respondent’s conclusion is based on the wrong 17 words. ECF No. 29 at 15.

18 After the second trial, defense counsel asked if he had to make the same 19 pretrial motions that had already been decided again for the third trial, and the trial 20 court responded in the negative. ECF No. 24-4 at 98 (Ex. 38). The prosecution

1 agreed that the parties “will abide by the same rules as the second trial,” and the 2 trial court stated that “[a]ll those orders would remain in full force and effect.” Id.
3 This Court is not persuaded that there is a compelling difference between the 4 “same rules” and Respondent’s statement referring to the orders as “rulings.” ECF 5 No. 23 at 25. The orders previously decided by the trial court may be considered 6 rules or rulings without changing the meaning of the trial court’s statement or 7 Respondent’s argument.

8       This Court is not persuaded that the public hearing must be “mirror images” 9 of the status conference hearing. See ECF No. 29 at 14. The parties merely 10 discussed the issue of defense counsel’s termination, which was then discussed in 11 open court with Petitioner who stated that he wanted his counsel to stay on the 12 case. See ECF No. 24-3 at 171, 174. The Court finds that Petitioner is incorrect 13 that the trial court preliminarily ruled on this issue prior to discussing it with 14 Petitioner in open court. See ECF No. 29 at 14. The parties then discussed the 15 trial court’s previous rulings regarding discovery issues concerning B.D.’s 16 videotaped forensic interview and sex tapes. ECF No. 24-3 at 167-68. The trial 17 court also refrained from ruling on an expert’s reports until seeing the evidence at 18 trial if the expert testified. Id. at 171-72. Lastly, the parties discussed a second 19 opinion regarding lab tests and that the opinion should be put in writing. Id. at 20

1 169-71. Petitioner is incorrect that the trial court made any rulings during this 2 hearing, but only clarified previous orders.

3 None of this discussion involved legal issues or constitutes an order that 4 would have been carried over to the third trial. The trial court was merely ensuring 5 that the parties were prepared for trial and made no new rulings that would affect 6 the outcome of the trial. This Court then finds that Petitioner is not prejudiced by 7 his absence during this status conference hearing even if he properly objected to 8 this issue at trial. The state court reasonably found that any error by the trial court 9 was cured by the third trial.

10 Accordingly, as Petitioner's counsel did not object during the second trial 11 and Petitioner suffered no prejudice, this Court denies Plaintiff's right to a public 12 trial claim because the state court did not unreasonably apply clearly established 13 federal precedent.

14 Claim 2: Right to be Present

15 Petitioner asserts the trial court denied his constitutional right to be present 16 by excluding him from the status conference hearing on January 11, 2012. ECF 17 No. 4 at 5. Petitioner argues that he is entitled to a new trial. Id.

18 "A defendant has a right to be present at any critical stage of his criminal 19 proceedings if his presence would contribute to the fairness of the procedure." 20 Campbell, 408 F.3d at 1171 (citations omitted). "The Supreme Court has never

1 held that the exclusion of a defendant from a critical stage of his proceedings 2 constitutes a structural error,” and thus a court reviews the exclusion of a defendant 3 from an in-chambers meeting under harmless error review. Id. A critical stage is 4 any “stage of a criminal proceeding where substantial rights of a criminal accused 5 may be affected.” Hovey v. Ayers, 458 F.3d 892, 901 (9th Cir. 2006) (citations 6 omitted) (finding that a hearing on defense counsel’s competence was not a critical 7 stage).

8 Here, Respondent argues that the status conference was not a critical stage of 9 the proceeding. ECF No. 23 at 27. The Court agrees and finds that Petitioner’s 10 rights were not affected by the status conference hearing. As previously discussed, 11 the trial court merely reiterated prior discovery rulings, refrained from ruling on an 12 expert’s reports until trial, stated that a second opinion on the lab tests be 13 summarized in writing, and discussed Petitioner’s desire to terminate his counsel 14 which was then discussed in open court. This hearing does not constitute a critical 15 stage of the proceeding and Petitioner’s presence was not necessary to contribute 16 to the fairness of his status conference hearing.

17 Even if the conference hearing is a critical stage, the Court finds that 18 Petitioner was not prejudiced, as extensively discussed above. The Court reviews 19 the state court’s decision for harmless error and finds no actual prejudice to 20 Petitioner as he was granted a third trial and the issues discussed in the hearing

1 were not orders that carried over or contaminated the third trial, contrary to 2 Petitioner's allegations. Accordingly, the Court denies Petitioner's right to be 3 present claim.

4 Claim 3: Double Jeopardy

5 Petitioner alleges a claim for double jeopardy as the conviction for first 6 degree rape of a child requires the same facts as a conviction for first degree child 7 molestation. ECF No. 4 at 8. Petitioner asserts there was a double jeopardy 8 violation because no instruction expressly stated that the jury must find that each 9 count represents an act distinct from all other charged counts. Id. at 11-12.

10 "[T]he Fifth Amendment guarantee against double jeopardy is enforceable 11 against the States through the Fourteenth Amendment. That guarantee has been 12 said to consist of three separate constitutional protections." North Carolina v.
13 Pearce, 395 U.S. 711, 717 (1969), overruled on other grounds by Alabama v.
14 Smith, 490 U.S. 794 (1989). Double jeopardy protects against a second 15 prosecution for the same offense after acquittal or conviction. Id. It also protects 16 against multiple punishments for the same offense. Id.

17 Generally, the Double Jeopardy Clause prohibits a State or the Federal 18 Government from trying a defendant for a greater offense after it has convicted 19 him of a lesser included offense. Brown v. Ohio, 432 U.S. 161, 168-69 (1977).
20 "[O]ne convicted of the greater offense may not be subjected to a second

1 prosecution on the lesser offense, since that would be the equivalent of two trials
2 for ‘the same offense.’” Jeffers v. United States, 432 U.S. 137, 150-51 (1977)
3 (citing Brown, 432 U.S. at 168). Whatever the sequence may be, the Fifth 4 Amendment forbids successive prosecution and cumulative punishment for a 5 greater and lesser included offense. Brown, 432 U.S. at 169.

6 In the context of jury instructions, the Supreme Court states that an 7 erroneous instruction can rise to the level of constitutional error if it “so infected 8 the entire trial that the resulting conviction violates due process.” Estelle v.
9 McGuire, 502 U.S. 62, 72 (1991) (citations omitted). The instruction “must be 10 considered in the context of the instructions as a whole and the trial record.” Id.
11 When reviewing an ambiguous instruction, the court inquires “whether there is a 12 reasonable likelihood that the jury has applied the challenged instruction in a way 13 that violates the Constitution.” Id. (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

14 Here, the Washington Court of Appeals noted that “[a] separate and distinct 15 acts instruction is used to prevent double jeopardy when multiple counts of the 16 same charge are presented to the jury.” ECF No. 24-1 at 29 (Ex. 2) (citation 17 omitted). The court found that “[c]hild molestation is not a lesser included offense 18 of child rape. Thus, a conviction for both child molestation and child rape does not 19 violate double jeopardy.” Id. (citation omitted). The court concluded that 20 Petitioner “has not established that the court erred by declining to give his

1 requested ‘distinct acts’ instruction. Although we cannot see why the court would 2 not have given the instruction, it was not an abuse of discretion to decline to do so.
3 There was no error.” Id. at 31.

4 Respondent emphasizes that the jury instructions in the third trial informed 5 the jury that it “must decide each count separately.” ECF Nos. 23 at 33; 24-5 at 6 227 (Ex. 40). During closing argument, defense counsel made clear that the jury 7 had to find facts to support two different acts, stating that “[y]ou have to prove 8 beyond a reasonable doubt to you that this happened twice ....” ECF Nos. 23 at 9 34; 24-5 at 250. Respondent notes that Petitioner acknowledged he has Herpes 1 10 and Herpes 2, as does B.D. ECF Nos. 23 at 34; 24-5 at 254. At trial, the 11 prosecution then argued evidence of two contacts because the herpes virus could 12 be transferred by a finger but there was also penetration trauma from Petitioner’s 13 penis. ECF Nos. 23 at 34; 24-5 at 254-55. Respondent insists that even if the jury 14 instructions were ambiguous, there is not a reasonable likelihood that the jury 15 applied the instructions in an unconstitutional manner. ECF No. 23 at 35.

16 This Court notes that the jury instructions stated, “A separate crime is 17 charged in each count. You must decide each count separately. Your verdict on 18 one count should not control your verdict on the other count.” ECF No. 24-5 at 19 227. The Court finds that even if the jury instruction is erroneous because it did 20 not give Petitioner’s “distinct acts” instruction, this error does not rise to the level

1 of a constitutional error. The Court determines that the state court reasonably 2 found that the trial court did not err in declining to give this instruction. In viewing 3 the context as a whole, defense counsel clarified that the charges required a 4 showing of two separate acts. It is then unlikely that the jury applied the 5 instruction in a way that violated the Constitution when defense counsel 6 emphasized in closing argument that the alleged charges must have happened twice 7 and the prosecution argued that Petitioner may have touched B.D. with his finger 8 and his genitalia. The jury could have reasonably found that two separate acts 9 occurred and it is doubtful they misapplied the disputed instruction.

10 Accordingly, as to Petitioner's claim of double jeopardy regarding the jury 11 instructions, this Court finds the state court's conclusions were neither an 12 unreasonable determination of the facts nor an unreasonable application of the 13 clearly established constitutional law.

14 Claim 4: Brady Violation

15 Petitioner claims that the State violated its discovery obligations because it 16 did not disclose that B.D. had a second recorded interview where she made 17 undisclosed statements potentially implicating another suspect. ECF No. 4 at 13.

18 "A Brady violation occurs when the government fails to disclose evidence 19 materially favorable to the accused." Youngblood v. W. Virginia, 547 U.S. 867, 20 869 (2006) (citing Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 87 (1963)). A court should 1 find that evidence is material “only if there is a reasonable probability that, had the 2 evidence been disclosed to the defense, the result of the proceeding would have 3 been different.” United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667, 682 (1985). “A reasonable 4 probability is a probability sufficient to undermine confidence in the outcome.” Id.

5 (internal quotation marks omitted). “To state a claim under Brady, the plaintiff 6 must allege that (1) the withheld evidence was favorable either because it was 7 exculpatory or could be used to impeach, (2) the evidence was suppressed by the 8 government, and (3) the nondisclosure prejudiced the plaintiff.” Smith v. Almada, 9 640 F.3d 931, 939 (9th Cir. 2011) (citation omitted). A Brady violation does not 10 exist in a case in which the allegedly suppressed evidence is known by the defense.
11 See United States v. Dupuy, 760 F.2d 1492, 1501 n.5 (9th Cir. 1985) (“Since 12 suppression by the Government is a necessary element of a Brady claim, if the 13 means of obtaining the exculpatory evidence has been provided to the defense, the 14 Brady claim fails.”) (citations omitted).

15 As the Washington Court of Appeals discussed above, Ms. Martin disclosed 16 during the third trial that there was a second taped interview of B.D. See ECF Nos.
17 24-1 at 22-26 (Ex. 2); 23 at 38-39; 24-6 at 238-42 (Ex. 41). The trial court ordered 18 the second videotape be produced and ordered a brief continuance to allow defense 19 counsel to contact necessary witnesses to prepare for his defense. ECF No. 24-6 at 20 240-42. Defense counsel then put on relevant witnesses who were mentioned in

1 the videotape. ECF Nos. 24-1 at 22-26; 24-5 at 159-95 (Ex. 40). Respondent 2 emphasizes that neither party sought to introduce the second videotape. ECF No.
3 23 at 41.

4 The Washington Court of Appeals asserted that the videotape was in 5 possession and control of CPS, but discovery rules apply only to materials within 6 the possession of the prosecutor's office. ECF No. 24-1 at 249 (Ex. 2). The court 7 found that "[e]ven if we assume that CPS was performing a law enforcement 8 function, thus bringing this case within the orbit of Brady, the argument founders 9 on the materiality prong of the Brady test." Id. at 249-50. The court emphasized:

10 Even after the tape was disclosed, neither party sought to admit it at 11 trial .... B.D. did not provide any information that suggested someone 12 else had raped and molested her. There was no apparent prejudice to 13 the defense from the late disclosure of the videotape's existence. The 14 defense had the opportunity to call witnesses related to the tape and 15 had time to investigate the matter before putting on its defense.

16 Id. at 250.

17 Petitioner argues that to escape a Brady sanction, disclosure must have been 18 made when it would be of value to the accused. ECF No. 29 at 16. This Court 19 agrees and finds that the second videotape was disclosed at a time when it could be 20 of value to Petitioner and his defense. This Court determines that the state court's rejection of Petitioner's Brady claim was a reasonable application of clearly established federal law. The state court correctly determined that even if the 1 prosecution withheld the videotape, the nondisclosure did not prejudice Petitioner.

2 Defense counsel was granted a continuance prior to even putting on Defendant's 3 case. The defense then called to the stand those witnesses believed to be important 4 in addressing B.D.'s statements regarding Brian. Yet, defense counsel chose not to 5 submit the videotape into evidence. Defense counsel had the opportunity to 6 address this videotape and Petitioner did not suffer prejudice from the initial 7 nondisclosure.

8 Accordingly, this Court finds the state court's conclusions were neither an 9 unreasonable determination of the facts nor an unreasonable application of the 10 clearly established constitutional law as set forth by Brady.

11 Claim 5: Cumulative Errors

12 Petitioner alleges that the accumulation of errors of the trial court "violated 13 the due process [g]uarantee of fundamental fairness." EF No. 4 at 16 (citation 14 omitted). Petitioner states that the errors "created a cumulative and ending 15 [p]rejudice that was likely to have materially affected the jury's verdict ...." Id.

16 Respondent argues that Petitioner fails to show that this error is based on 17 clearly established federal law because the Supreme Court has not established such 18 a rule. ECF No. 23 at 42. Respondent also contends that Petitioner has not shown 19 the existence of a constitutional error in his claims and that he cannot cumulate the 20 effect of errors until he shows the existence of an individual error. Id.

1 The Washington Court of Appeals declined to reach Petitioner's cumulative 2 error claim "in light of our conclusion as to his trial claims." ECF No. 24-1 at 27.
3 This Court agrees as Petitioner fails to show any errors based on clearly established 4 federal law, and thus there cannot be an accumulation of errors that materially 5 affected the jury's verdict.

6 Based on the foregoing, this Court finds that the state court's rejection of 7 Petitioner's claims was neither contrary to nor involved an unreasonable 8 application of clearly established federal law as determined by the United States 9 Supreme Court, nor an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the 10 evidence that was presented in the state court proceeding. Thus, habeas relief is 11 not warranted on these claims.

12 III. Certificate of Appealability

13 A petitioner seeking post-conviction relief under section 2254 may appeal a 14 district court's dismissal of his federal habeas petition only after obtaining a 15 certificate of appealability (COA) from a district or circuit judge. A COA may 16 issue only where a petitioner has made "a substantial showing of the denial of a 17 constitutional right." See 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2). A petitioner satisfies this 18 standard "by demonstrating that jurists of reason could disagree with the district 19 court's resolution of his constitutional claims or that jurists could conclude the 20

1 issues presented are adequate to deserve encouragement to proceed further.”

2 Miller-El v. Cockrell, 537 U.S. 322, 327 (2003).

3 This Court concludes that Petitioner is not entitled to a COA because he has 4 not demonstrated that jurists of reason could disagree with this Court’s resolution 5 of his constitutional claims or could conclude that any issue presented deserves 6 encouragement to proceed further.

7 ACCORDINGLY, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

8 1. Petitioner’s Amended Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus (ECF No. 4) is 9 DENIED.

10 2. Any appeal taken by Petitioner of this matter would not be taken in good 11 faith as he fails to make a substantial showing of the denial of a 12 constitutional right. Accordingly, a certificate of appealability is 13 DENIED.

14 The District Court Executive is directed to enter this Order and Judgment 15 accordingly, furnish copies to the parties, and CLOSE the file.

16 DATED August 2, 2018.
